

Southern has agreed to provide disclosures that will help shareholders understand how the company is managing and mitigating its methane risk including providing data on the Company's fugitive methane emission intensity rates, information on its computation processes, and progress in tracking emissions; data related to fugitive methane emission intensity reduction targets. It will provide, in its corporate responsibility report, a description of its leak detection and repair protocols, by utility, including types of monitoring equipment used, pipeline replacement progress, and data regarding lost and unaccounted for gas. The company will also continue to engage with stakeholders to discuss and consider alternative methane leak detection practices, including a discussion of advanced leak detection technologies and software. The information provided by Southern reflects work the company is doing and information it is providing as part of its participation in the ONE Future methane reduction program.